

Ireland to Montenegro

by Angie

“Well Bro, my alphabetical route got sidetracked.

I HAD to visit Ireland, didn't I? And doing it before Istanbul was impractical, airfare-wise. So I went to the Emerald Isle next.

The description is apt, and the place seems timeless. Remember when we shared a bottle of Guinness, Vincent? Tastes much better now! Even if I couldn't understand the dialect, I sure absorbed the food and friendly natives.

Then I flew to Montenegro. It's a place of confused history in a part of the world rife with it – but happy, peaceful, with stunning scenery and beautiful, clean modern cities. Remarkable.”
