

World Gift

by Judith

“This is from a little curio shop I found. It sells old postcards. I just knew you would love this one.” Catherine handed Vincent his new magnet.

“You know me too well.” Vincent smiled, shaking his head.

He reached beyond his love and added the new gift to his already crowded board.

“You have so many now.” Catherine moved closer. “It was such a small idea. How it has grown.”

“They show me a world I cannot see.” Vincent joined her.

“They make me feel connected.”

“One day, Vincent, I will show you everything.”

“One day...” Vincent nodded, humouring her.

