

The Mouse Dance

by Judith

“One thing I always wanted to see, was Catherine teaching Mouse to dance at Winterfest,” David Greenlee answered the fan’s question.

Sounds of appreciation and regret rippled through the audience. That was also something they’d have liked to see happen. Then all eyes turned towards Linda Hamilton as she rose from her seat further along the Q and A panel.

“Well, surely there’s no time like the present.” She left her place to draw David to his feet. In no time they were performing an elegant waltz around the stage. “Happy now?”
