

B&B Tidbit (100 words)

by Ulrike

Nightmare's End

Catherine felt herself fall a long way, almost lifeless, drifting into narcosis.

Another nightmare haunted her, a mingling of familiar faces and traumatic events. Nobody heard or understood her, indifferent no matter how hard she tried to explain.

Daddy promised her the best medical treatment money could buy. Tom and his party friends were bursting with loud, sardonic and scornful laughter.

She felt small, insignificant, hopeless.

Then her view changed. She saw him, standing in the upper entrance of his chamber. He nodded and she immediately gained courage, hope.

As she awakened, the first word on her lips was "Vincent."