Pointe du Raz

Hi Chandler, little brother,

Today I made a trip to Pointe du Raz.

It is the westernmost point of France, a rugged rocky cape, seems to be at the end of the world. Coincidentally, it's also dramatic, with crashing waves, strong winds, high cliffs and the roiling emerald water of the Atlantic Ocean far below. A very wild and lonely place.

A long, narrow road leads to the cape. Suddenly, small cuts run in parallel lines, with gaps on both sides of the road. Very odd.

Then, when you finally reach the place: a ticket machine.

Lots of love
