

B&B Tidbit (100 words)

by Zara Wilder

Night of All Nights

Vincent emerged out of shadows onto Central Park West, intending to cherish precious moments alone with his beautiful new friend. He sensed Catherine, her consternation boiling over, somehow alerted to Brigit O'Donnell's escape from the ball, hurtling downstairs from the decadent penthouse, pursuing, inflamed by ravenous greed -- towing a Stranger with her.

But Vincent had come to meet Brigit -- welcomed her wisdom into his grateful soul. This night of all nights, Vincent could give an Irish owl-woman her requested freedom, walking openly at her side beneath the Samhain moon. Understood and understanding. Two passionate spirits of the underworld, briefly united.