

B&B Valentine's Day Tidbit (100 words)

by Ulrike

February the 14th, 1950

Margaret and Jacob Wells looked forward to their Valentine's Day celebration. Jacob planned a special surprise for her. It was a little bit tricky and delicate.

He wanted to present her some lace lingerie. She looked so wonderful in this touch of nothing.

Naturally as physician he was familiar with a female body, but there were so many different models, shapes and sizes. It wasn't seemly, in those days, for a man to shop for intimates. How he solved this problem remained his secret.

On Valentine's Day eve they enjoyed a wonderful candlelight dinner - crowned by an extraordinary dessert.