

En La Rose

by Anony Mouse

Castles carved beneath the ground
So many lost could there be found
They built a fortress deep and strong
With love and hope so all belong

Their guardian, he lived celibate
Tho' books and words he fain debate
The love he dreamed he couldn't give Above, his aspect wouldn't live

Yet in the darkness, he found hope
One foggy night his dream awoke
In each was love each wanted freed
While hearts rejoiced in knightly deeds

Two roses grew, they re-invent
What love and passion truly meant
Their blooms in white and red reprise
*'En la rose je suis fleuries' **

END

(* 'In the rose I flourish' - motto of the Moss family)