

REMEMBRANCE

by Kate Nickell

*Once love is found, it is never forgotten
Though time and circumstance may lovers separate
Their lives diverge, their futures left unwritten
Imagined in a dream, who can recreate
The beauty we shared, secrets whispered on the wind
Only to be scattered, lost, never to be found
By mere mortals. The messages we send
One to the other, echo without sound
But the abyss that divides us will someday be crossed
Its bridge the link that joined us, the love we shared
The life you entrusted to me. We have not lost
We have won - for eternity our souls are paired
Death cannot part us forever; wherever I roam
You are always beside me, guiding me home.*