

Vincent's New Soliloquy

by Pearlaann Snowstar Nosil

Vincent

In this big city of many, lies a tale of love and loss and love found again. Thinking I would be alone with only her memory, she came back to me, due to miraculous circumstances and now we are together forever, never to be apart.

Catherine

I lived, died and lived again, with love. Love that was taken, then given back by love. Although my life now is forever changed and I have been blessed by love and children, I have no regrets about what happened, for I am blessed with a love that will last through all time and my true soul mate will always be in my heart.