

Intrigued

by Angie

Eddie was in town, so Catherine invited her for lunch, her treat – partial repayment for all the vending machine lunches in the DA's office.

So they met at a new sushi bar and spent a couple of wonderful hours reminiscing. They vowed a repeat. On their way out, Catherine bought a unique magnet and tucked it into her purse.

Later that day she presented it to Vincent, who looked at it in puzzlement. It was certainly food, but what kind? Definitely not Chinese.

Catherine explained and promised to introduce it to him. Vincent, now intrigued, vowed to remind her.

