

Simple Beauty

by Angle

Vincent's magnet collection was growing and he feared he might soon run out of room. So it was with some relief that the small package he received one day indicated a smaller than usual contribution.

He opened it and to find a carved sea, sky and rocky shore with a lone tree. He smiled at the simple beauty of the scene.

But there was no note with it. Who had sent it? He waited for enlightenment.

Then one day Cullen visited and Vincent sensed this was the gift giver.

"Makes a change from chessmen," Cullen admitted a little ruefully.

