

Take All of Me...

by Judith

Catherine stepped onto the rocks beside the pool. She stretched her arms above her head.

Standing with her, Vincent watched the shadows dance a silent symphony across her nude body, highlighting rounded breasts rising above the flat plane of her abdomen, where their four children had been cradled.

Catherine's eyes turned to his, before moving across his chest and flanks. As naked as she, his body responded as she knew it would. The intense passion between them flared anew.

She smiled sensually. "You know, it's been years since we've made love in the water."

Together they leapt into the pool.
