The first welcome

“Your pregnancy has reached the second trimester. All is going well. How do you feel?,” Mary asked Catherine.

“Very well. I’m balanced and happy, just as Vincent is,” she smiled.

Later, on her balcony Vincent stood behind Catherine, enclosing her in his cloak as she sat in a chair. They were both savouring the moment, their bond humming in secret understanding.

Suddenly, Catherine convulsed, groaned, then rose from the chair.

Vincent looked alarmed but she took his hand and held it to her belly.

What he felt overwhelmed him with wonder.

She smiled up at him in confirmation.
